

- By inspecting the element we find the following fields:

From inspection, we see that the breadcrumb in the product-box belongs to a main class named box-text box-text-products text-center grid-style-2. (as indicated by 1)

- Similarly, we inspect the breadcrumb in the product description page:

From inspection, we see that the breadcrumb in the product description page belongs to a main class named product-info summary col-fit col entry-summary product-summary (as indicated by 3)

- From 2 and 4 indications, we find that the breadcrumb belongs to the same class woocommerce-breadcrumb breadcrumbs of `<nav>`
- However, their main classes are different.
- If we try removing the breadcrumb using the class given in the `<nav>`, then all such breadcrumbs will be removed.

We cannot hook our styling to the breadcrumb of <nav> tag as shown below, as this could remove all the breadcrumbs from all the pages.

```
nav.woocommerce-breadcrumb.breadcrumbs {
  display: none;
}
```

- Hence we hook our required breadcrumb from the main class, i.e box-text box-text-products text-center grid-style-2.

.box-text.box-text-products.text-center.grid-style-2 .breadcrumbs{
  display: none;
}
```

The above code will remove the breadcrumb ONLY from the products page and the breadcrumbs in the other page will not be effected.

- Further the website is developed in WordPress as detected using wpdetector.

We will need to install a plugin named “Custom CSS” and place the below code in the plugin.

.box-text.box-text-products.text-center.grid-style-2 .breadcrumbs{
  display: none;

I hope this can solve the problem. However, I am still searching for other possible solutions.

Cheers!
